

Letter Gives Flynn's Girl Part in Estate

NEW YORK (AP)—An unsigned, unwitnessed document, proclaiming Beverly Aadland, 17-year-old protegee of the late Errol Flynn, "one-third owner" of the actor's estate in Jamaica has turned up.

The document, which Miss Aadland says was written by her and dictated by Flynn 10 months ago in Havana, was filed Monday in surrogate court by Justin Golenbock, Flynn's attorney and executor.

Golenbock last week filed a will signed by Flynn in 1954, long before he knew the blonde teen-ager, leaving the bulk of his estate to his widow, actress Patricia Wynne, with bequests to his parents and his children.

The swashbuckling movie star's estate is valued at more than $100,000 and estimated as high as a million dollars, including a 60,000-acre copra plantation in Jamaica.

The latest document, written on stationery of the Hotel Nacional, Havana, also provides for any child that Miss Aadland might have by Flynn.

Golenbock's law partner, Donald S. Shack, said the document was filed for information only and had no real bearing on the actor's will.

Informed in Ingleswood, Calif., that the paper was unsigned, Miss Aadland snapped, "That's ridiculous. I saw Errol sign it."

Her attorney, Melvin Belli, said in San Francisco that the document is a valid will.

Miss Aadland, who was with Flynn when he died of a heart attack Oct. 14 in Vancouver, B.C., said: "Errol dictated that document on the day before he left to join Castro. Errol told me what to write and I wrote it. He signed his signature, as I remember it, in the middle of the page."

"He gave me the document, he said, 'If anything happens to me, give this to Golenbock.'"

"However, he got back safely from visiting revolutionary leader Fidel Castro's forces, and we took it to Mr. Golenbock in New York. We were talking in the room. Errol told me to get that will thing and we'll give it to Golenbock. I did."

"Mr. Golenbock said to Errol, 'Let's go in the other room and I'll talk to you privately.'"

"They came out. I asked Errol, 'Is it legal?'"

"He said, 'Yes it will be executed exactly as written.'"

THE STORY: Sara Volinger must face charges of shooting her husband Kim. Her husband was really shot accidentally by their 3-year-old son, but she tried to shield him from the knowledge that he killed his father.

Chapter IV

It took Ray a long time to get Sara free on bond. He apologized for being so long. It didn't matter she told him. Nothing mattered until tomorrow after the funeral.

At the graveside, after the service, Sara moved from between Marie and Rhoda to thank Mom Volinger for keeping Timmy. "I'll get him on my way."

A fluttering paper came between her and Mom. A voice Jocelyn's, knifed the air. "This is a custody order, Sara. Timmy will stay with us."

"And you're not to visit him," came Vee's voice, low but razor-sharp.

"Let me see the order, Mrs. Canoy." Ray's voice came from a great distance.

Sara was aware of his dark coat sleeve, his hand taking the paper from Jocelyn. Then, everything blurred. She shook her head and blinked her eyes; she saw a yellow rose lying alone between her and the grave; she felt she should go pick it up; it was so terrible to be alone. But then the rose dissolved in blackness.

When consciousness returned, Sara was sitting in a folding chair, Marie stooping on one side holding her head forward, Rhoda on the other rubbing her hands.

"It's a temporary order," she heard Ray say, stressing temporarily. She lifted her eyes to see Jocelyn reach for the paper. "As long as you've shown us your copy, Mrs. Canoy, please let me read it to Sara," Ray held it down, but Sara couldn't see the words.

She heard them though, cruel even in Ray's gentle voice. "Because of public indignation against Sara Volinger, natural mother of Timothy Volinger, who has accused her child of killing his father, said public indignation reading into the accusation an attempt to escape punishment herself, and because the Circuit Attorney has issued a warrant against Sara Volinger for murder in the second degree, I hereby direct that Timothy Volinger be kept at the home of and in the custody of Mrs. Reagan Volinger, his paternal grandmother, pending the outcome of the case against Sara Volinger."

It was signed by Judge Wallace Grant of the Juvenile Court. At Ray's first word, when the lawyer telephoned her that evening, Sara knew his news was not good.

"I'm sorry, Sara, but Judge Grant refused to reconsider."

"Where does Judge Grant live?"

"Live? You mustn't see him, Sara. I'm afraid you'll only antagonize him."

"Ray, I have to—" she stopped. She could find it in the directory. She heard his voice as she lowered the receiver, but she didn't lift it again. Her car seemed to drive itself to Judge Grant's address.

"Yes?" Judge Grant half opened the door, a fan of cards in his hand.

"I'm Sara Volinger. May I see your boy's custody?"

"Volinger? Oh, yes, Volinger. Didn't your lawyer get in touch with you?"

"Yes, that's why—"

"You'll receive a copy of my action in tomorrow's mail. If you wish to appeal it, do so" — he started to shut the door — "through Mr. Sinclair."

"Judge Grant, I'm appealing to you right now."

He pulled the door wide. "Perhaps you'd better come in, Mrs. Volinger." He led her past a lighted room whence came voices. "Come into my study."

Sara sat down in the great leather chair he motioned her to. It was deep, and she sank back. She wished she could move to the straight chair, but the judge took it. A big man, not fat, just big and broad, he seemed to tower over her.

"First, you must understand, Mrs. Volinger," he said, slowly, deliberately, "that because you are under arrest your child is a ward of the Juvenile Court, and it remains a ward until the Court finds the circumstances favorable for returning it to you."

He closed his fingers and fanned them out again, more with deliberation than nervousness. "Now tell me what you object to in having your child where it is."

If Sara was shocked that he kept calling Timmy it.

"Jocelyn Canoy, my sister-in-law, has no children. Judge Grant, and she doesn't like children. Kim knows — knew — that, and he purposely avoided taking Timmy out there very much. She's harsh with Timmy—"

Tears she had thought under control flowed before she could stop them. But she kept talking. "And there's Vee Mortun, a friend of Jocelyn's who lives there. Vee is very cross with Timmy. In your custody order you named my mother-in-law, but Vee dominated Jocelyn, and Jocelyn dominates her mother."

The judge listened, then said: "The probation officer who interviewed the family and talked to their neighbors reported them very stable people. Mrs. Volinger, including the uncle, Mr. Canoy. Whereas in your present state of emotion, the child would be a victim of your hysteria. Stability goes a long way toward giving a child security."

CHAPTER V

"I'll tell you why I told Timmy I hurt his father," Sara hadn't wanted to go into this, but possibly it would help. "It's because of something that happened to me —"

"Yes, yes, I know about that," Judge Grant said a little wearily. "The file is at my office, Mrs. Volinger and what I'm discussing with you is from memory. But I reviewed it all very carefully this morning. 'Shall I say that playing the martyr does not provide a good atmosphere for a child?'"

She tried again to sit up straighter in the chair. She felt so deep in it that she couldn't fight back any longer.

Judge Grant rose. He wanted her to leave. "Mrs. Volinger, a child belongs with its natural mother under ordinary circumstances. But we in juvenile work can't take the easy way out and say, 'Leave it with its mother,' in every case. We have to consider the circumstances."

Sara lifted herself out of the depths of the chair. "If I didn't the judge call Timmy?"

"But can't I at least see my baby?"

"Mrs. Volinger, there is clearly family dissension and mutual dislike in a case of that sort it is better for a child to have a clean break so it can adjust to the new surroundings without conflicts."

Sara reached for the doorknob. She was completely benten down. "One more thing, Mrs. Volinger. There is a possibility, which we must keep in mind, that you will be found guilty. As long as you are considering your child's good, you will understand that should that happen the child will already be oriented to the home of its grandmother; there will be no further shock of change."

Sara felt her throat go dry. Finally she got out her last question. "But when? When can I have my baby?"

He led her down the hall. At the front door he said, "If you are acquitted, you can be sure that I will review all the testimony and all the information the probation officer can gather. Whatever the circumstances warrant, I'll do."

Sara went for a walk with Nonsense next morning. Nonsense sniffed at the toy fire truck on the front porch, and Sara's tears started flowing; she went back inside and removed the lens. She paced the room from the stairway to the fireplace and back again. She started at the green rug, so empty of toys.

There had to be a way to see Timmy.

When the taxi came close to the big house on Houlton Drive, Sara said, "Don't stop. Just drive slowly, very slowly past 824."

It was a bright sunny day. Timmy ought to be playing outside. But there was no sign of Timmy. She went past four times. The last two times she thought she saw a certain move upstairs; she couldn't see the person behind it. As she entered her own front door, Vee's car pulled up out front.

Vee's first words stopped the question that formed on Sara's lips. "You stupid fool!" Vee flung out as she slammed the front door shut behind her. "Don't try that again!" Her voice was loud, not like Vee's at all. "Jocelyn would have called the police if I hadn't stopped her. But this is the only warning you'll get."

"Vee, please, tell me, how is Timmy?" Sara stood in the middle of the floor in front of Vee; she would get on her knees if she

Wounds Man Who Broke Into Home

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A young boy grabbed a pistol and critically wounded a man who had burst into his home and killed his mother, police said.

Dead is Mrs. Florence Johnson, 32.

The incident happened yesterday at the Johnson home on Pine Bluff's outskirts. All involved were Negroes.

Samuel Surratt, 52, of Pine Bluff, was reported in critical condition at a Little Rock hospital today.

Joe Willie Beaver, 17 and James Johnson, 14, were in the house at the time. Beaver told police Surratt burst through the front door and shot Mrs. Johnson. She was hit in the face three times and once in the chest by .32 caliber pistol bullets.

James grabbed a .22 pistol and shot Surratt three times Beaver said.

Police continued an investigation.

Sara moved back to the divan and sat down. She felt sick.

Vee rounded on her. "You don't!" she began, but she choked on smoke she drew too hurriedly into her lungs. Her eyes watered and she pulled her glasses off. Her eyes were small and weak-looking. It was as though she had taken off the mask behind which she lived. "Do you understand?" she went on after a moment.

"That you are never to try to see Timmy? Haven't you done enough already to wreck his life? And the whole family's? And mine?" Vee paused and lowered her voice, but even so, her words still came out strong and venomous. "We all know you for the conniving woman that you are! Flaunting yourself in his office like a prima-donna!"

Astounded, Sara said nothing.

"Well, now do you understand?" Vee asked again.

"I understand," Sara was surprised at her own calm.

"You won't try to see Timmy, ever. Not at the house or anywhere."

Sara dropped back and hot tears poured down her cheeks.

"What are you crying for?" Vee began a fresh attack. "You've had your chance to mourn in public; you don't need to play it in front of me. I've mourned Kim twice — first when he married you and again when you killed him. I couldn't weep in public either time. 'Vee ranted above Sara's stifled sobs. 'I had to laugh the first time and try to catch your bouquet. And I did, and I married Bill Mortun. Good old Bill, everyone called him.'"

She stopped a moment, as though trying to catch up with herself.

"And now when you thought I was going to get Kim back, you did a great job of taking matters into your own hands. And I still couldn't weep in public. You still had the place of honor. Well, it's dishonor now!"

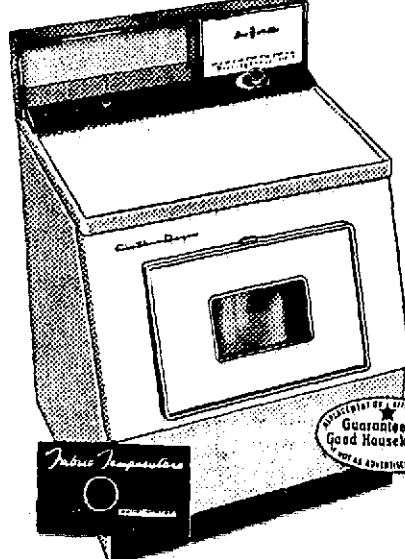

She flung the door wide and walked out.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Is the Stubborn One, Girl Needs Attention

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Several months ago I started dating Jeff. My folks didn't approve of him at first, but knowing how stubborn I could be they didn't like him. Oh, well, I am a popular girl in school, belong to a good sorority and have loads of friends. Jeff goes to a different school and doesn't share many of my acquaintances. For that reason, he refused to attend sorority or school affairs with me. I missed some pretty good times but as long as he was happy, so was I. This term he went to an out-of-state school, and to my amazement, I haven't missed him at all. We keep in touch by mail but his letters mean nothing to me. I look at his picture and wonder what I saw in him, even if he is very good-looking. After all, that isn't everything. My problem is, what can I do when he does come back home? I'd like to date him occasionally but he really should know that my basic feelings have changed. —Poppy

Dear Poppy: The one fact that sticks out in your letter is this: how come you were so stubborn with your parents, but perfectly willing to be as pliant as a summer flower with Jeff? You held your ground with mom and dad, but made no stand whatever with Jeff? He was the real stubborn one, not you. You were just the sap; he was the strong tree. Now that he's had a change of scene, don't you think it's possible that he may also have had a change of heart? Don't worry about hurting his feelings. He has little concern about yours. After all, sorority parties mean a lot to a girl. Any boy of consideration would have realized that and gracefully attended any functions.

Dear Dorothy Dix: When I was confirmed, my sister was engaged to a boy named Rufus. We were all very fond of him, and he was my sponsor at confirmation. Now they have broken up and my sister has a new boy friend. Rufus is having a birthday soon, and since we are spiritually related, would it be all right to send him a birthday card? —U.M.

Dear U.M. By all means. It would be rude to overlook him. If Rufus decides to cancel all connection with his ex-fiancee's family, you'll have to bow to his decision. Meanwhile, keep up a token relationship, anyway.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I would appreciate receiving the leaflet, "So You Want to Write," mentioned recently. Our seventh child is now four years old, and while all the others are living at home, each year seems to bring a little more time to read and collect my thoughts. I have enrolled in night school classes to refresh my typing ability, which has given way to formulas and diapers these past twenty years. Enjoy your column. —Bette

Dear Bette: You certainly aren't going to join the rocking chair brigade when your cheeks start to fly. The leaflet is on its way, and I hope it inspires you to use that required typing skill. Any one else can have the leaflet, too, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to change of paper, asking for it.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper.

Drys Charge Illegal Votes at Searcy

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—The White County Temperance League charged today that illegally cast ballots resulted in a victory for wet forces in a local option liquor election last fall.

In an amendment to its White Circuit Court suit challenging the election, the league said officials permitted 335 illegal votes to be cast, knowing they would be wet votes.

The petition said the league had found 96 illegal votes in Bald Knob Township and asked that the entire vote in that box be thrown out.

Wet forces won a narrow victory in an effort to legalize sale of all kinds of alcoholic beverages. Previously, the county had been wet for beer and wine and dry for liquor.

The Arkansas Supreme Court recently ordered election officials to permit the league to examine the ballot boxes.

The amendment states that elimination of illegal ballots give dry forces a victory in the election. The league challenged the election shortly after the vote was certified. Action in the suit has been delayed during the league's effort to obtain access to the ballot boxes.

health or safety.

The appeals court in Philadelphia Tuesday upheld the constitutionality of the injunction but gave the union six days to take the final appeal to the Supreme Court.

That is the point where Rogers stepped in.

Two cracks have appeared in the united front of the steel companies against the union. On Monday Kaiser Steel Corp., ninth largest in the industry, signed a long wolf contract with the union. It is getting its big West Coast mill back into operation.

Tuesday Detroit Steel Corp., which ranks 15th, signed an agreement along the lines of the Kaiser settlement. Detroit, however, had not been one of the 96 companies struck by the union.

Five Counties in Disaster Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five west Arkansas counties have been declared disaster areas by the Agriculture Department as a result of recent flooding by the Arkansas River.

The action yesterday made farmers in Crawford, Johnson, Logan, Sebastian and Franklin counties eligible for emergency loans through the Farmers Home Administration. The loans will help finance their next crops.

Johnson, Crawford and Sebastian counties had applied for the aid. M.J. Mills, state director of the F.H.A., said his office recommended the other counties because of damage suffered.

Ft. Smith Rated Top Arkansas Football Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fort Smith's Grizzlies still hold the number one spot in Arkansas high school football. But old nemesis El Dorado crept up into second place, this week in the Arkansas Sportswriters Assn. poll.

Pine Bluff was third and Little Rock fourth. Both are tied for the Big Nine Conference lead, met Friday night at Little Rock in a game that could decide both the league lead and the state's top ranking.

El Dorado rose from third place probably based on its 7-0 victory over Little Rock Central last Friday night. Central dropped from second to third. Pine Bluff rose from fifth to third with a 57-13 victory over Camden.

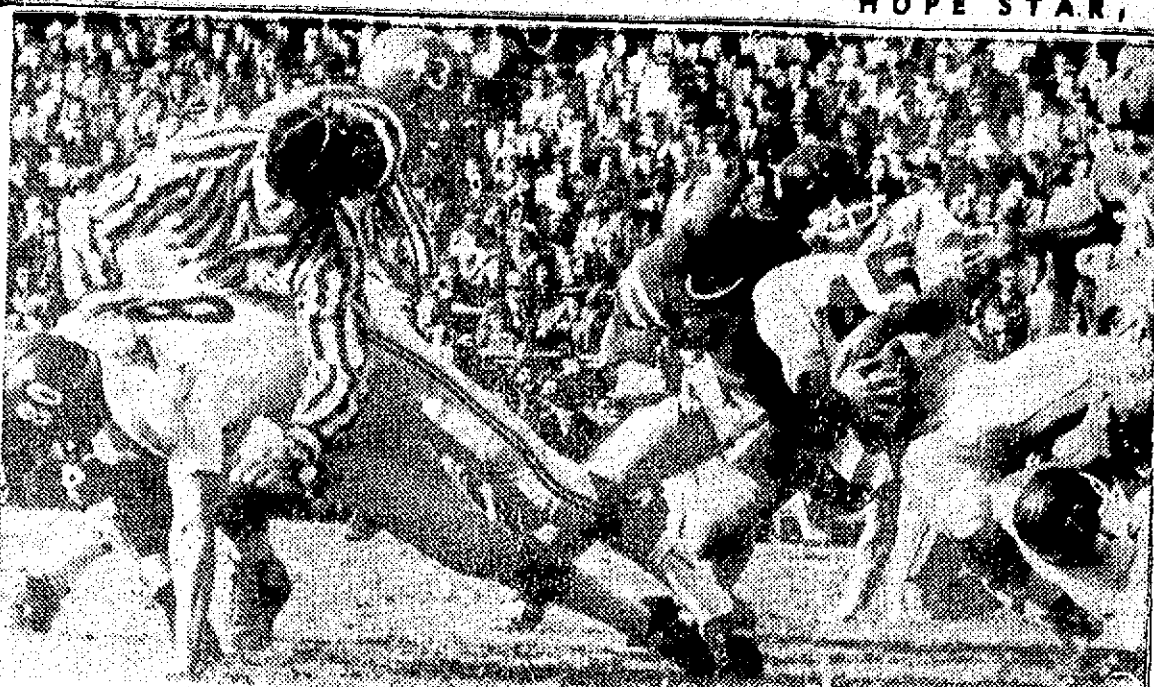

Hall retained fourth with a 9-7 victory over 10th-ranked Benton. Forrest City, unbeaten in seven games, and Little Rock Catholic are tied this week for top Class AA team in the state and seventh place in the overall state rankings. Both have a total of 70 points from the eight voting committee members.

North Little Rock dropped to ninth when it lost 20-13 to Class AA Conway. And Benton retained 10th place.

Conway entered the top 20 for the first time this season with that upset victory over North Little Rock. The central Arkansas team, which doesn't have a chance for the 3AA championship, took 12th in the state, right behind Class A power Fordyce.

Fordyce won its 10th straight game last Friday night, beating Rison, 35-6. The Redbugs stand ready to jump to the top ten if one of the other clubs falters this week.

Texarkana goes to El Dorado. Pine Bluff goes to North Little Rock and Blytheville goes to Hot Springs this week in other Big Nine games. Little Rock Central plays Memphis Central in a non-conference encounter.

Mississippi on Probation for Recruiting

BOSTON (AP) — The NCAA has placed the University of Mississippi and Arizona State University at Tempe on probation and limited that further disciplinary actions against other schools may be forthcoming.

"We may have further announcements today," said Walter Byers, executive secretary of the 550-member organization. He declined to name the schools involved.

The NCAA Council, policy-directing body of the group, Tuesday placed Arizona State on a two-year probation and — for the first year of that period — made it ineligible for NCAA national titles and participation in invitational events, including post-season football bowl games, held in cooperation with the NCAA.

Mississippi drew a one-year probation, but was not made ineligible for bowl games or national place vote, 14 for second, etc., at night.

Longshot Wins British Handicap

NEWMARKET, England (AP) — Rexequus, a 25-1 longshot owned by V. J. N. Adams of Britain, came from behind to win the 17th running of the Cambridge-shire Handicap in the last 100 yards today.

The Scottish-trained Rexequus, a 3-year-old bay colt, won by a half length over Anthelion, a 33-1 shot. Anthelion nosed out Thames Trader, 100-3, in a photo finish for the place position. Sanctum was fourth in the starting field of 36.

The last Irish Sweepstakes of the year was based on a mile and an eighth over Newmarket's turf course.

Homecoming Friday Night for Tigers

Yerger Tigers will play host to the Idabel, Okla. Wildcats on Friday night in their annual Homecoming attraction at Hammons Stadium. The Tigers sport a 3-2-1 record while the Wildcats are 3-3 in overall play this season.

The two teams had one foe in common this year, the Texarkana Ark. Lions. Yerger and Idabel were handed 18-6 and 7-0 lickings respectively. However, the Idabel defeat came early in the season while Yerger suffered its loss in the fifth game. Both teams have improved since the set backs. The Tigers were able to tie Jones High Dragons of North Little last Saturday night.

In its last two games the Wildcats made a total of 13 touchdowns while holding its opponents scoreless. This will be the first meeting of the inter-state foes, and promises to be one of the better games of the year for the home town boosters and fans. The Tigers offense will be hampered somewhat due to injuries to two first team back, QB Earl Edwards and FB McFadden and alternating QB Clifford Tys.

The Homecoming attraction will be highlighted by the Coronation tomorrow afternoon, a parade in downtown Hope Friday at 3 p.m. Five bands with a number of floats and cars will add beauty to this pageant. All Yerger fans and Bobcat boosters are invited to see the game Friday night.

Results of the Hope-Camden game will be announced as scores are available.

Each action came as the result of violation of rules governing financial aid or recruiting of prospective athletes. Both are effective immediately.

In addition, Arizona State was declared ineligible for one year, for any television programs subject to control by the NCAA.

It was the second time in six years that Arizona State has been disciplined by the NCAA. The school drew a reprimand and two year probation Sept. 1, 1953 and was declared ineligible for all NCAA events in 1953-54.

In another action, the NCAA removed the University of Cincinnati from a probationary status. Cincinnati was placed on probation April 28 for violation of grants-in-aid rules. Byers said the school has "made adequate adjustments to its program and now conforms with NCAA regulations."

Guernsey and Cale Split Two Games

Cale and Guernsey split a double header last night with the Cale Senior boys winning 66 to 30 while the Guernsey Junior boys turned in a 57 to 14 victory.

Cale's Larry Hicks tossed in 23 points in the senior game and Guernsey's Perry Lynn Cox made 19. In the Junior contest Guernsey's Bill Hawley made 22. Joe O'Rourke 18 and Leslie Stevens 12. Glass was high for Cale with 7.

The Junior teams go to Saratoga Monday night and the Guernsey Senior teams travel to Spring Hill Tuesday, Nov. 10.

Picks LSU, Texas, Army for Victories

By HAROLD OLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "We're firing a rocket to get a glimpse of the crystal ball's other side. The near side isn't too much help any more in picking the college football winners, although last week's tabulation showed 47 correct picks in 37 decisions for 326.

Louisiana State over Mississippi: The nation's longest winning streak, the Southeast Conference championship and the Sugar Bowl invitation all are tied up in this Saturday night affair. Both are undefeated and the pick is that LSU will stay that way by the thinnest of margins.

Texas over Southern Methodist: But Don Meredith will give the Long Horns the fright of their lives.

Army over Air Force: This is a must game for each club. Army's crimples are healed. Northwestern over Indiana: Each weekend Northwestern comes up with another outstanding quarterback, but after the game he played against Notre Dame it is quite probable that John Talley will be at the helm again.

Syracuse over Pittsburgh: As long as the two Davis boys are in the line-up the Orange is a mighty potent football team.

Southern California over California: The scare Stanford gave Southern California last week has taught the Trojans a lesson.

Penn State over West Virginia: The Mountaineers have no defense for Richie Lucas' passes.

Elsewhere:
Auburn over Florida, Georgia Tech over Duke, Wisconsin over Michigan, Purdue over Illinois, Clemson over Rice, Yale over Dartmouth, Tennessee over North Carolina, Oklahoma over Nebraska.

Both Arkansas and Aggies Hurt by Key Injuries

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks and the Texas Aggies both will be hurt by injuries Saturday when they meet here in a Southwest Conference football game.

A&M Coach Jim Myers says his star quarterback, Charley Milshead, "definitely will not start against Arkansas but may play some, depending on the condition of his knee."

Milshead suffered the knee injury in the third quarter of last Saturday's Baylor game. Myers said he would not work out this week.

Myers said Powell Berry will start at quarterback against the fleet Hogs.

End Steve Butler and guard Billy Tramm are the big names on Arkansas' injured list. Both are on the first or Big Red unit. Butler was a key pass receiver in the Texas game and Tramm's defensive ability and offensive speed make him a stalwart in the line.

Butler, who has a bone separation in his ankle, definitely will not play Saturday. Tramm is a doubtful starter because of a shoulder injury. Both injuries were suffered last week in the 28-0 loss to Mississippi.

Jim Gaston, a junior, moved up into Butler's end position. Jerry Green took over at Tramm's guard spot yesterday, although soph Dem Garrett played there Monday.

Razorback sophomore quarterback George McKinney suffered a slight sprain of the right ankle in yesterday's practice, but it was not thought to be serious enough to keep him out of today's practice.

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles was pleased with yesterday's workout. He called it "the best practice we've had in a pretty good while," and said it indicated that the Hogs had forgotten about the loss to Ole Miss and were "really thinking about A&M."

Broyles stressed his running game in practice yesterday after working on passing Monday. More tough drills were expected today.

Magazine Is Milder Than Reported

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman reportedly has told Negro friends privately that he would have jailed Gov. Orval E. Faubus had he been president in 1957 when Faubus used the National Guard to prevent court-ordered integration at Central High School here.

That's the statement in the current issue of Ebony Magazine, a publication devoted mainly to news of Negro activities.

The magazine article turned out to be considerably milder on the Faubus matter than it appeared from an advance publicity release.

This release indicated that Truman had told interviewer Carl Rowan, a prize-winning Negro reporter for the Minneapolis Tribune, that he would have jailed Faubus.

Instead Rowan wrote that Truman ducked the question of what he would have done in 1957 with the statement that he didn't want to be "a Monday morning quarterback."

"Are you in favor of kicking Faubus out of your party?" Rowan said he asked Truman.

He quoted Truman as replying that "I think we'd better let Faubus alone for nobody wants to make him a hero in the South. If you want to make him a martyr, you can make him one."

Then Rowan reached the purported jailing statement.

He said that state Rep. J. Frederick Neal, a Kansas City druggist, "and other Negro friends of Mr. Truman say that he is not nearly as philosophical when discussing Faubus in private."

"Neal says Truman confided to his Negro friends: 'I'd have put Faubus and the whole gang in jail. I would have activated the Arkansas National Guard (just to take it out of state control) but would not have used it. I'd have called in guardsmen from nearby states and put them under command of the toughest general I

'All we need to solve this integration problem is some common sense,' he said. 'Somebody should make a distinction between Negro and white leaders. The latter part of Mr. Faubus' career is unimpeachable. I don't like him, but I got the people together. And we've had no trouble.'"

Capital Abroad Is Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — American industry reduced its capital outlays abroad by 14 per cent last year, the Commerce Department reported today.

It said a group of major companies surveyed reported their spending overseas for plants and equipment totaled three billion dollars in 1958. The figure a year earlier was 3½ billion.

Most of the reduction reflected the absence of large payments for petroleum leases in Venezuela, which were an important factor in 1957.

Canada ranked first among regions in U.S. foreign capital expenditures. Outlays there came to more than 900 million dollars.

Latin America, which had ranked first in 1957, was just below 900 million.

Sues MOP After Husband's Death

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The widow of a railroad section worker killed in the collision of a repair car and a freight train has sued Missouri Pacific Railroad for damages.

Mrs. Vila Watson of Clarksville charged negligence on the railroad's part in her action filed in Johnson Circuit Court yesterday. Her husband, Noel, and two other MOPac employees died when their repair car hit the train head-on, on a bridge southeast of here.

A fourth man saved his life by leaping from the car, instantly before the crash, into a creek below.

No Telecast of Game Saturday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas-Texas A. & M. football game here Saturday will not be telecast in Arkansas.

A university representative today said that the game was not a sellout and apparently had no chance of becoming one.

Under Southwest Conference regulations the game could be telecast in its home state area only if it were a sellout.

The university spokesman said it would be telecast to Texas and New Mexico but would be blacked out to stations which reach Arkansas.

Some 3,000 tickets still remained unsold today.

Scientists of U. S. Nobel Prize Winners

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two American atomic scientists today were awarded the 1959 Nobel physics prize for the discovery of the anti-proton, proving that matter exists in two forms, as particles and anti-particles.

The physics winners are Italian-born Emilio Segre, 51, and Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, born in San Francisco. Both are attached to the University of California at Berkeley.

Segre and Chamberlain are the 17th and 18th Americans to win the Nobel physics award. They will divide $200,000.

The Swedish Academy of Sciences, which awards the prizes provided by the inventor of dynamite, the late Alfred Nobel, said the discovery of the American nuclear physicists was one of cosmic implications.

Using the giant atom-smashing bevatron at Berkeley, Calif., they found that by clashing their newly discovered anti-proton and a proton together, both dissolved into light.

The awarding body said the anti-proton—the electrically negative mirror image of the proton or hydrogen nucleus — had been predicted 30 years ago by Paul Dirac of Britain, who shared the 1933 Nobel Prize with Erwin Schrödinger of Berlin University.

The discovery by Segre and Chamberlain of the anti-proton was heralded as an important step toward introducing some order to the bewildering micro-world of some 30 odd sub-atomic particles known to scientists today. The two physicists published their findings in the fall of 1955.

The two winners were assisted in their work by Dr. Clyde Weigand and Dr. Thomas Ypsilantis of the California University staff.

Segre was born at Tivoli, Italy, and was a student at the University of Rome of Enrico Fermi, the pioneer nuclear physicist and 1938 Nobel winner. Segre taught at the Rome University and then at the University of Palermo.

In 1938 he was one of a group of prominent Italian scientists who, with Fermi, went into exile to escape fascist rule. Segre has worked at the atomic bomb research center at Los Alamos, New Mex.

Chamberlain was born in San Francisco in 1920. He was educated at Dartmouth College and

Mrs. Bushnell was reluctant to talk about her counter espionage role but said she worked for the Office of Strategic Services in Washington, New York and Canada.

Safecrackers Spree in Pine Bluff

PINE BLUFF, Ark. — Safecrackers had a spree in Jefferson County last night. They broke open the Niven Mercantile Co. and took more than $100,000 in cash. They burglarized the Office before moving north, six miles south to rob a safe in Alfalfa market.

"This undoubtedly is one of the most professional safes," said. "They knew exactly how they were doing it."

Oliger said damage ended the effort to break the safe open. He said it had terminated yet what was the post office.

A million pounds of bones has been recovered since it was discovered.
